Hints About Millinery.

The imported bonnots are either very imple and plain, and should therefore be inexpensive, or else they are extremely rich, being made of embroidered stuffs stiff with the threads of gold and beads with which they are wrought. For simple bonnets smooth with felt is chosen for general use, and plain velvet for nicer wear. The new felt bonnets have the crown cut out in a curve or point on the lower edge to make room for high dressed hair, or to form a pretty finish above that part of the hair which is combed upward from the nape of the neck. It is a very easy matter to trim such a bonnet by placing a very large cluster of stiff loops of volvet ribbon near the front, directly on top, making each loop stand out in wing shape, just as small wings are now arranged. the edge of the brim a binding of galloon, or some velvet folds, or a puff, are all that is needed. A bird's head or some straight feathers may be thrust in among the velvet loops, or the whole cluster there may be of feathers grouped by the more practiced milliner's hand before being sold. These montures simplify the trimming, and only need a little care in sewing them on, as they have a good background for hobling the stitches. The strings may be the small valvat how you to be small as the state of the sewing the series of the series velvet bow now so popular, or else they may be two yards of velvet ribben from two to three inches wide; this ribbon crosses the lower edge of the crown, or may be attached on each side by a fan-

The richest fabrics, some of which cost one hundred and forty dollars a yard and are so narrow that a yard will only serve for two crowns, are the gold-embroidered camel's-hair made as stiff as metal with threads of gold. Far simpler than these are the embroidered velvets with small figures all over them, as for instance, a lozenge shape wrought in solf-colored silk with a zigzag outline of silver or gilt threads. This design is handsome in black and silver velvet placed smoothly on the small crown, while the close capote brim is covered with diagonal round of silver breid with diagonal rows of silver braid edged with a thick cord covered with black velvet. On top of the bonnet is a rosette cluster of black lace threaded with silver and this holds some brilliant feathers of the bird-of-paradise which are cut only a few inches in length, and are far more graceful than the long slender plumes of that bird when used in their natural length. The strings are of striped velvet and watered silk.

Green is the prevailing color in imported bonnets for the autumn and winter, and is seen in the usual dark myrtle and bottle greens, but is most distinguishable in the new and lighter crosson shades. There are hand-some frise figured velvet without figures for the brim and the strings. Dark brown with green tinges giving olive hues combines handsomely with the brighter greens, and is worn near the face when cresson is used for the crown. A dark myrtle volvet hat has its brim arched, not sharply pointed, and partly covered inside near the face with a cluster of line piping folds of brilliant connelicot red velvet.

A novelty in velvet round hats is to have the top of the crown quite soft, as if to indent it at pleasure, and to cover the sides of the crown with gathered velvet, forming two puffs all around it. The brim is then covered plainly, and edged with galloon that has gold threads in it, or else gold bends, but the proference is for wrought gold rathor than for beads. Velvet ribbon loops and a bunch of feathers directly in front are almost the only trimmings scon on round hats. The high square of slightly through ground and any trip of the professions are not read any three grounds. tapering crowns are most used, and the brim is narrow and stiff being quite even all around, or else getting still narrower in the back. The crown is high and large enough to take in the high coil of hair, if the hat is set slightly back on the head, and in this way the front hair is also shown. Felt round hats to match woolen suits have cording all over the crown in yormicelli patterns, or olse they are slightly embroidered in silks of the same shade. Galloon, velvet bands, and wings thrust in velvet loops are the trimmings for felt hats. -- Harper's Bazar.

Curtained Mantel.

Now that the plant white mantel is out of fashion, a device for covering it, which will produce the popular effect, may be acceptable to many. The sup-position is that the mantel shelf is supplied with a lambrequin, and we desire HOME tel front. Of the lumbroquin material make two curtains just reaching to the floor and neeting in the center directly over the fire front. The curtains are suspended by small rings on a slonder bruss rod placed under the mantel shelf. They should be sparingly deco-rated with embroidery or whatever class of ornamentation is put upon the lam-

Another means of transforming a White mantel is by the use of paint. Where it is found necessary to do over the woodwork of a room, have it done in the fashionable cherry or mahegany color, painting the mantel in the same. Have the usual black fire front done to imitate copper and gold, and the effeet is new, novel and pleasing. - Cincinnati Times.

How Sugar Cane Grows.

Sugar cane grows during about five and a half months. It makes its aupearance say on the 1st of April, and by the 15th of September it has done reaching upward. In that time it grows or ought to grow twelve feet, counting the white joints and the top flag or tuft. On the 1st of July it is some four feet high, so that from then until the 15th of September it grows ninety-six inches. During August, however, it reaches the largest rate of increase, the ordinary growth during that month under favorable conditions being forty inches. August is known as the "growing month." It is then that cultivation is over and the then that cultivation is over and the ground thoroughly shaded by the foliage. It is then that the daily showers stimulate the process of vegetation until one can almost literally "see it" shoot upward. It is on clear, still nights during this month that you can hear that light cracking sound all over a healthy field of cane. It is the month when, instead of growing three-fourths Petty squanties were numerous, but nothing of a serious char-acter occurred. A crowd of negroes paraded up Eutaw street, and when passing a gang of street sweep-ers, cheered for Blaine. The scav-engers immediately charged upon the colored men with their hickory brooms and the latter scattered in all directions.

Four of the street cloaners were then arrested and locked up. An event that caused much amusement occurred last evening. It was a mock funeral, the sub-ject being an edligy of James G. Blaine. His hands were covered with white cotton therefore, carry great weight with every man anxious to ascertain the probability of the result:

NEW YORK, NOVUMBER 7.
To the People of the United States:
There can no longer be any question concerning the actual result of the Presidential election.
Grover Cleveland and Thomas A. Hendricks have a majority of eighteen in the Electoral College. It is not worth while for our adversaries to claim the electoral vote of the State of New York. It is absolutely certain that the returns of the proper officers of elections on the night of the the five wither showed a decisive plurality in the State for the electors supporting Cleveland and Hendricks. It any different or affered returns are now being prepared, or are promulgated, they are corrupt faisifications of the reg. New York, November 8,-An extra cilltion of the Mail and Express says: "The Associated Press has now the official returns in from each district of every county. As footed up they show a small Republican pluraiity. The totals differ from those made by the Democratic State Committee on the returns from the County Clerks of each county. But the figures received by the Associated Press from each district are the same as received by the County Clerks of the respective countles of the State. The result is now to be decided upon the accuracy of the footing of the totals as between the Associated Press and the Democratic State and National Committees.
About midnight the Associated Press will send out its figures on every county com-pleted and revised, and will at the same time issue the totals as based on the figures of the County Clerks. The public will then have to take its choice of the figures or wait until the official count settles the question. Present indications point to a plurality of 250 for Blaine. The Betting Even. Both parties marched the streets yelling and cheering, and the returns were favorable alternately to one and the other. The greatest indignation is expressed by Kansas Republicans at St. John, whose course in New York St. John, whose course in New York has led to results which have proved disastrous to their party, and the ex-Governor's name was shouted in deri-sion by thousands of Republicans upon the streets. Last evening an effigy of St the streets. Last evening an energy of St. John with a rope around its neck was paraded up and down the principal avenues of the city, followed by a howling mob of fully 3,000 people. At eight o'clock the procession halted in front of the Western Union Telegraph office and nailed to the telegraph pole office and nated to the telegraph pote a cross bearing the following inscription: "Sacred to the memory of John P. St. John, November 4, 1883." A rope was thrown over the cross-bar and the effigy was soon swinging from the top of the telegraph poles. Colonel P. II. Coney. who was conspicuous as one of the Irish orators in the Ohio campaign, then addressed the assemblage in the following words:

FRILOW CUIZENS:-The just indignation of the righteous and loyal people of Kansas is here expressed by the public execution and final destruction of that carpet-bagger, John P. St. John. He has violated every trust and confidence and deserves no consideration. Parade him! hang him! burn him! But be sure and clear Kansas of his disgraceful name."
At the conclusion of his remarks a match was applied to the effgy and it was soon burned, amid the shouts and jeers of the populace, and the National Prohibition candidate for President went to destruction in effigy at the capital of his State and in the city where he lived during his four years of administration as Governor of Kansas.

Another Riot in Hocking Valley. CLEVELAND, O., November 7 .-- Another riot is in progress in the Hocking Valley. State troops have been called for. Murray City was attacked at ten o'clock last night by an armed force of men, supposed to be strikers. The attack was begun about an hour after Pinkerton's men went off guard, giving place to the new company's police. The mob fired upon the town and mining company's store from the hills on all sides. The shots were returned by the police and became a regular fusilade on both sides. The guards were driven in from the hill above the hoppers, and had it not been for the action of Pinkerton's men, who came out just in time, the hoppers would have been burned. Explosives were thrown from hills which burst in the strikers. town, shaking the earth. The upper part of the house was jammed, and the downthe honso was jammed, and the downstairs crowd was large. Sully's Corner Grocery, an uproarious comedy, with an occasional touch of nature and a pathetic love episade underlying, was greeted with tremendous manifestations of approval. The leading role, Daddy Nolan, is portrayed by Mr. Daniel Sully, the author of the comedy, and with the assistance of a pleasing company, an audience is regaled with a constant round of amusement. A pretty picture of domestic life is presented in the play, and there is an appeal not only to the risibles, but the purer and nobler emotions, and little tender episodes check the laughter of the audience, and

The Fire at Ehrman's. The fire department was called out again this afternoon to squelch a little fire in an upper room at the residence of Mr. I. W. Ehrman on West Prairie street. It caught from a stove pipe falling in the room occupied by Miss Fannie Ehrman, and got started pretty well when discov ered. The chemical engine got water quickly and soon put out the flames. Damage chiefly to furniture, curtains and clothing in the room, estimated at $50.

The bosses advised the boys to hold off, as they felt and still feel that the result is in great doubt. It is now understood that the demmies will jollify on Tuesday night. Perhaps.

CHIEF WAYNE makes a special request that the people do not run to headquarters when an alarm of fire is sounded. The crowd frightens the horses as they rush out of the fire-house, and then with so many people standing about some one is liable to get hurt. Stay away from the fire-house and wait and see the chemical engine go by.

THE TAILOR SHOP FIRE. Great Conflagration Averted by

caused by a serious fire in the Robert Green tailor shop, back room on second floor over Henry Smith's drug store on Water street, in the building owned by James S. Carter. Mr. Green and his men were busily at work. They had a raging fire in the stove and the woodwork and Insured in the Westchester of New York, ceiling near the stove-pipe caught fire and burned awhile before the men noticed the danger. Falling plaster was what first directed their attention to the fire above, and then two men tried to extinguish it with a pail of water, but they failed and the alarm was given. In less than two minutes from the time the alarm reached headquarters the chemical engine crew were standing in front of the drug store. It was a job that called for quick work and the chemical engine was there with the panting horses and ever ready to do it. The hose was quickly unreeled and the men made a flying trip up the stairway, and got the water on the fire in a flash, Chief Wayne being on hand to direct the work. The fire had eaten its way between the ceiling and floor and it was necessary to tear up a section of the flooring above. The old Masonic rooms were filled with stifling smoke which poured out of the front windows when they were opened. In less than 15 minutes after the engine arrived the fire was under complete control, and all danger was past. The several hose companies with the hook and ladder trucks were promptly at the scene, but their services were not required as the chemical engine was getting in its work beautifully. The engine paid for itself a dozen times over last night. It was quickly at the scene. It worked like a charm, and only one of the 80-gallon chambers was emptied of its contents. There was comparatively little damage done by water, though some dripped through into the prescription department of the drug store, necessitating the removal of boxes of goods. A great growd stood in the street and park and some excitement prevailed as the volumes of smoke issued from the windows and swept over toward the Ullrich

Generally the people praised the chemical engine and its crew, and owners of the business houses who were more or less frightened at the beginning, were proud of the new machine, Chief Wayne

A CARD.

DECATUR, ILL., Nov. 6, 1884.

Henry A. Wood, Agent of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., Decatur, Ill.:

Dear Sir. I desire to thank you for the prompt settlement, by your company, of the policy on the life of my late husband. It will give me pleasure to say a good word for the Mutual Benefit whenever the opportunity offers.

Again thanking you for your kind attention and assistance, I remain yours truly, Mrs. Laura Whitsit.

Franklin Priest is a representative the constant of the line of the charge which has been freely made that the Prohibition party was in league with the cool-pigeon for Demijohn and Grover Cleveland. Assuming that they have been successful in effecting what they lead they have placed the party of rum and Rebellion in power. They have set back the cause of prohibition haif a century. They have helped to bring the saloons to the front. They have helped to place in the ascendency a party which will repeal every liquor tax and local option law where it can, and will introduce free rum and its consequences. Their Obairman is and its consequences. Their Obairman is in the line of the charge which has been freely made that the Prohibition party was in league with the Democrats, and that Saintjohn was but the cool-pigeon for Demijohn and Grover Cleveland. Assuming that they have been successful in effecting what they leave been successful in effecting what they leave been successful in effecting what they loan, what is it that they have been successful in effecting what they loan successful in eff have stood up to be counted, and recorded the insult offered the temperance men at the Chicago Convention." If they con-sider the election of Cleveland a rebuke to the Democratio party it is altogether probable that the Democrats would like to be rebuked in that style for all time to come. By this kind of "rebuke," if they have here successful they have not only have been successful, they have not only placed the rum party in power, but the ballot-box and freedom of elections, a party which will repeal the National election laws, a party which believes in the sovereignty of the State as superior to that of the Union, and a party which will be dominated by the Solid South, which is already in the saddle and prepared to demand reparation for the losses incurred in that section by the Democratic Rebel lion. That is the mischief they have done, and there is no doubt that it was done maliciously.

The Prohibition Chairman goes on to

it will rise stronger than ever for the next drunkery here gone from America." This is but a repetition of the old and silly claim which Saintjohn has made so many times to his cranky hearers. Because Birney helped to defeat Clay and brought the Democrats into power, who at once proceeded to repeal the Missouri Compromise and to pave the way for the introduction of slavery into the Territories, and thereby aroused and antagonized the North until it arose in its might and over North until it arose in its might and over-threw the Democracy and abolished slavery, he would argue that by defeating the Republicans and bringing the Democ-racy into power they will make the rum traffic so odious that the people of the country will rise up and crush it as they did slavery. The claim is both illogical and absurd. Prohibition is not a National question and never can be. The Prohibi-tion platform itself is a logical impossi-bility, and for that reason its supporters bility, and for that reason its supporters cannot succeed." The States would never A prohibition amendment to the Consti-tution could never be ratified by three-of Federal courts and necessitate a sysiary invasion by the Washington Government which the people would never en-dure in their local affairs. The liquor traffic is a matter of purely local concern.

The sanctimonions and hypocritical plea of the Prohibition Chairman will not do the Prohibition cause any good, nor will it in any way affect the Republican party, however the election may have gone. It only goes to confirm previous statements that they were in league with

A poor man in Philadelphia had to ber row a dollar to buy a bottle of Aratornono-on secount of his poverty his nameshall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rhou mattern. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first does Tuesday afternoon and m Wednesday, after but seven doese. I had not a sharp or severe such sit. Then I reduce the does one half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work till fat unday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bed time I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."
